PLACES to EAT in KOREA

Restaurant

레스토랑

Serves foreign foods; normally priced higher than Korean cuisine due to the non-local ingredients used.

Restaurant

분식집

Serves small meals and snacks on the cheap, such as a spicy rice cake (ddogpogi), tempura, and ramen.

Hof, Bar

호프, 바

Serves a variety of drinks including Korean beer and soju. Normally at least one small dish of food (anju) should be ordered.

Restaurant

포장마차

Outdoors: Offers quick cheap meals. Standing room only.

Korean Restaurant

한식집

All varieties of traditional Korean food.

Cafe

카페

Offers various coffees, teas, and desserts.

Floor table

상

sang

Korean Barbecue

바비큐

ba bi qyu

A favorite of foreigners. These places serve pork or beef, and sometimes both. Can be marinated or plain. A charcoal grill BBQ is preferred over a gas grill BBQ, but costs more.

TIP
- Dishes are often shared among Korean colleagues and friends. Allow your senior members to serve themselves and begin to eat first.
- Don’t feel ignored! Koreans prefer to enjoy their meals at their own pace and without interruption from the restaurant staff. When you need service, raise your voice and call out for assistance.
- Look around! Many restaurants also have buzzers to contact servers.
- Major credit cards, including American Express, are accepted everywhere.

Budae Jigae is a Korean stew that uses common US Army rations such as hot dogs, beans and Spam.

Doenjang Jigae is the Korean equivalent of Japanese miso soup. Both are made using fermented soy bean paste.

Doenjang Jigae has green onions in a vegetable or beef broth as opposed to miso's fish based broth. It is an excellent source of protein.

Saying goodbye in Korean requires knowing who is staying and who will be leaving.
Goodbye is ‘have a good stay’ or ‘go in peace’.

If the speaker is leaving and other people stay, the speaker says ‘anyeonghi gyeseyo’.

If the speaker stays and others leave, the speaker can say ‘anyeonghi gyeseyo’.
If all parties are leaving, everyone can say ‘anyeonghi gaseyo’.

Good bye.

The Korean language uses two sets of numbers. Anything that can be counted will require use of only one of these sets. Sino-Korean numbers, in yellow below, are derived from Chinese. Pure Korean numbers, shown in the two rightmost columns below, are of Korean origin.
Pure Korean numbers are only commonly used to represent 1 to 99. Ordered numbers, or ordinals, are a version of this. The yellow boxes are ordinals of Pure Korean numbers showing ranking. The left column is a set of Sino-Korean numbers which are used for Korean money.

The Korean Train Express costs more than a regular train, but offers a fast and comfortable way to travel Korea. You can travel from Seoul to Busan in under 3 hours as opposed to 4 hours on the regular KORAIL train. Half of the seats face backwards, so avoid these if you are easily prone to motion sickness. Ticket pre-sales are announced and occur before holidays, selling out before the date of departure. Standing seats are also available.

- Expect to negotiate prices with shop stall owners. Each shopkeeper keeps a calculator handy for such situations. Ask to borrow it, then type in the amount you would like to pay. Show it to them. This may go back and forth several times.
- Shopping malls, chain stores, and department stores normally do not allow haggling.
- Korean department stores feature shops representing local and international brands. Each of these shops may have sale events. Look for sale signs, as these items are typically found in a single rack.

The proper use of ‘older brother’ and ‘older sister’ will depend on the gender of the younger sibling. If the younger sibling is a woman, she will call her older sister, ‘eon-ni’. If the younger sibling is a man, he will call his older sister ‘nuna’.

Younger family members must address older family members respectfully by using their title, as listed in the diagram above.

Older family members can address younger family members simply by adding the letter ‘a’ to their name. So Moon-jung becomes Moon-jung-a to her parents, older brothers, and older sisters.

TIP
- ‘Sigye’ can be used to describe any device that tells the time. This includes a wall clock, an alarm clock, or even the time display on an electrical appliance.
- The English language requires an ‘s’ to be appended to the end of a noun to pluralize more than one object. Korean uses only one form, the singular form, to describe one or more objects.

Green Tea

녹차 (nokcha)

The Korean name for green tea literally translates to “green tea”. Full of antioxidants that help minimize the effects of aging.

Plum Tea

매실차 (maesilcha)

This sweet drink is commonly served as a dessert after large meals.

Ginseng Tea

인삼차 (insamcha)

Normally purchased in powder form from supermarkets and department stores. Ginseng contains adaptogens which can manage stress, fatigue and anxiety.

Ginger Tea

생강차 (saenggangcha)

Recommended for cold prevention, headaches, motion sickness, diarrhea and maintaining a healthy physique.

Citron Tea

유자차 (yujacha)

Made from an East Asian citrus fruit called “yujе” that looks like a grapefruit. It is sliced and mixed with honey before preserving.

Barley Tea

보리차 (boricha)

Commonly served as a complementary tea in Korean restaurants. Naturally caffeine-free and good for stomach aches.

Herb Tea

쌍화차 (ssanghwacha)

A health tea made from various Korean herbs. It is useful in fighting colds and exhaustion.

Corn Tea

옥수수차 (oksusuchcha)

Kernels of corn are roasted and then boiled to make this drink. It has a naturally sweet taste and is often combined with barley tea.

TIP

- The personal pronoun “I”, “naneun”, is not required in Korean as it is in English. However, if you want to emphasize yourself, you can preface the conjugated verb with the polite form of “I”, “naneun”. This is noted by the optional use of “naneun” in parentheses in the pictures above.

- Koreans use a single verb representing “to be sick” and “to be hurt”. These do not translate exactly into English. Therefore the expression, “I am sick,” literally translates to “I have pain.”

I am tired.

Street Vendor: 포장마차 (pojangmacha)

Located near street intersections and nightlife areas, these food carts and stalls offer quick inexpensive food year-round. There are both daytime and nighttime types and hours will vary by location and owner. Some of the evening pojangmacha even serve alcohol such as soju. The food can vary but many dishes are deep fried.

In the fall and winter time, these carts are enclosed and offer a warm retreat from the cold. Warm or cold weather aside, Koreans love this comfort food.
Korean Rice Cake

ttpokkki

Arguably the most popular Korean street food. Large chewy rectangular-shaped rice cake mixed in a hot pepper sauce with scallions.

Fish Cake Skewers

eomuk, odeng

Skewered fish cake pieces boiled in a broth. The fish cake is formed by mixing flour and ground fish. Fish cake is also used in dishes such as tteokbokki.

Korean Sausage

sundae

A Korean pork sausage. Similar to European sausage, it is made from pig intestines. These are stuffed with cellophane noodles, congealed pork blood and spices.

Batter-Dipped Food

twigim

Deep fried vegetables and seafood covered in a thick and hearty batter. Squid, sweet potatoes, chili peppers and dumplings are the most common types served.

Seaweed Rolls

gimbap

Rolled seaweed stuffed with boiled white rice and various other ingredients. These often include: imitation crab meat, cucumbers, pickled radish and carrots.

Battered Rolls

gimmali

Battered and deep fried seaweed rolls stuffed with seasoned cellophane noodles. It is a type of twigim. You can ask street vendors to mix the gimmali in tteokbokki sauce for free.

Korean Pancake

buchimgae

Enjoyed as a snack, appetizer or side dish. Korean pancakes are made from a variety of ingredients including: kimchi, green onions, seafood and meat.

Large pieces of seasoned chicken on kebab sticks. Scallions are sometimes placed between the chicken pieces.

Fish-shaped Waffle
붕어빵
Fish-shaped waffles made from poured batter and stuffed with sweet red bean paste. Similar in taste to a European waffle. They do not contain any fish products.

Roasted Sweet Potato
궁고구마
Sweeter, more yellow, and dryer than U.S. sweet potatoes. These are roasted during the winter attracting customers with their delicious smell.

Hot Dog Stick
핫도그
A deep-fried breaded hot dog on a stick. Similar to an American Corn Dog.

Roasted Chestnuts
군밤
Peel the chestnut to reveal the golden brown nut inside.

Seasoned Silkworm Pupae
변데기
Roasted silkworm pupae. Pupae are insects aged between larva and adult stages. Chrysalis is another name for this stage in the insects growth. They are steamed or boiled and then seasoned. Can also be purchased in a can from the supermarket.
The KBO, or Korean Baseball Organization, follows the same rules as the MLB in the West. The experience of watching the game, however, is different. Korean baseball demands the full attention of the audience. Thunder Sticks are banged together while the band plays, cheerleaders dance and the fans sing continuously for the length of the game. It is an experience like no other sport.

The overall price of the tickets, food, merchandise, and parking is very reasonable as compared to the more expensive MLB games in the U.S. For those in Seoul, Jamsil Stadium is a fantastic place to watch either the Doosan Bears or the LG Twins. With over 30,000 seats, there is plenty of room to catch a game during the regular season. Attendance is up 30% this year, so arrive early to get the best seats.

TIP

- Like Western baseball, reserved seating behind home plate and along the first baseline are the most expensive seats.

- The upper stadium seats as well as those in the outfield are general admission. These are the lowest priced tickets available.

- The cheering section is the loudest, most interesting place to be during the game. These normally sell out to the diehard fans. Arrive early to get a good seat.

TIP
- Most Korean apartments have enclosed indoor balconies and this space is often used to air dry laundry. Not only is this good for the environment, but it also minimizes the damage done to clothing during washing and drying.
- The price of professional washing and pressing is very reasonable in Korea. These items are usually ready for pickup in 2-3 days.

Choose pork or beef to be cooked on gas or charcoal table grills. Marinaded and non-marinated meats are available. The marinades are slightly sweet and often consist of onions, garlic, water, sugar, and soy sauce. Fruit, such as minced Asian pear, may be used in the marinade as well.
Next, put the grilled meat into a soy dipping sauce or a simple mixture of salt and pepper.
Lastly, place the dipped meat a red leaf or sesame leaf. Pickled onions, spicy wrap sauce, and other ingredients can be placed on top. Fold the lettuce wrap with your fingers and enjoy.

Buddha’s Birthday
부처님 오신날, 석가탄신일
bucheonim osin-nal, seokgatan-sinil
A national holiday in South Korea. The date correlates to the first full moon day of the Lunar calendar which usually occurs in May. It is commemorated with a week-long lotus lantern festival. Buddha was born over 2,500 years ago.

Children’s Day
어린이날 eonini-nal
Children’s Day is a national holiday celebrated on the 5th of May. Korea has a patriarchal society, so this day is meant for fathers and mothers to spend time with their kids.

Teacher’s Day 스승의날 seuseung-ui-nal
A non-official holiday celebrated on May 15th. Teachers are well- respected in Korea and this holiday is an appreciation of their efforts and hard work. Small gifts such as roses or carnations are considered acceptable presents.

Parents’ Day
아버지날 aoboe-i-nal
Every May 8, Parent’s Day is celebrated as a non-official holiday. Although parents may go to work, kids will give red carnations, homemade cards or small gifts to honor their mother and father. There’s an official Parent’s Day song that children can sing as well. Restaurants are normally busy as older sons and daughters take their parents out to celebrate.

- May is known as family month in Korea.
- Public transportation, shopping malls, movie theaters, and other types of businesses are busy. On Children’s Day, for example, amusement parks such as Lotte World and Everland become very crowded.
- If these holidays fall on a Friday or Monday, creating a long holiday weekend, expect subsequent traffic jams.

TIP
- Shoe mending, or shoe repair, is a very inexpensive business that foreigners can utilize in Korea. These small crate-shaped shops are located along busy streets and intersections. You have the option to drop off your shoes or wait. Services include: shoe polishing, heel replacement, resoling, shoe stretching and comfort fitting, waterproofing, leather conditioning, and shoe hardware replacement. Cash only.

- Gift certificates are commonly distributed to workers during the numerous holidays of the year such as New Year's Day or Korean Thanksgiving Day. As a side business, some of these shoe mending shops will exchange store gift certificates for cash. If you have received a gift certificate but would like to have cash instead, you can exchange it here for a slightly reduced amount.

- Korea uses the pay per use model for non-recyclable trash. Recyclables are free, but everything else needs to be placed in purchased trash bags. This differs from some countries where you pay a flat monthly fee regardless of the amount of trash. Each neighborhood is responsible for selling their own trash bags. Local convenience stores carry 5 to 50 liter bags.

- Food waste is organic material that can be reused as animal feed and is safe for the environment. Hard shell nuts, pits of fruit, bones, and shellfish are generally not considered food waste. Dispose of these with regular waste in the purchased trash bags.

The largest bill currently dispensed from an ATM is 10,000 won, therefore transactions are based on multiples of this amount. Some ATMs will ask you how many 10,000 won bills you want to withdraw. This can be confusing as Western ATMs only ask the amount to withdraw, not the number of bills to dispense.

Money can be withdrawn in the form of cash or bank checks. Bank checks are printed in multiples of 100,000 won. These are accepted by most businesses. To use them, endorse the back of the check and show your ID to the clerk at checkout.

- Koreans do not use personal checks. Instead, bank transfers are used to pay bills. These are known as wire transfers outside of Korea. Korean bank-to-bank transfers can be performed using an ATM, via mobile phone, or online using the bank's secure Web site. Be sure to have the payee's bank name and account number handy.

TIP
- If your account balance falls below the specified amount in your terms of agreement, 900,000 won for example, the number of free monthly network ATM withdrawals and transfers will decrease. Banks normally offer a limited number of free out-of-network ATM withdrawals as well.

- Many banks have implemented transaction limits. CitiBank Korea, for example, has a 10,000,000 won per transaction limit and a daily transaction limit of 50,000,000 won. ATMs have a transaction limit of 700,000 Won that can be paid in bank checks or cash.
